R. D. Trimble, Of CIA, Dies

Washington, Aug. 23 [Special]—R. Delmege Trimble, Jr., Central Intelligence Agency employee and former Baltimore, Richmond and Washington newspaper man, died last night at his Washington home. He was 55.

Mr. Trimble, who had been an editor and administrative officer with the CIA since 1948, had been a reporter earlier for the Baltimore Sun, the Washington Post and the Richmond Times-Dispatch. For the latter paper, he also served as news editor and Sunday editor.

During World War II, he was in the Navy and received a French combat medal from Gen. Charles de Gaulle for service in North Africa.
